Description

“Do the work of an evangelist” writes Paul in the second epistle to Timothy. In a day where an “easy” gospel is preached, where “repentance” is an unpopular word, where God's holy righteousness is undermined, here is an exhortation to faithfulness in sowing the seed.

The Lord Himself entrusted to His apostles the commission to “preach the repentance and remission of sins to all nations.” This volume presents the scope of this commission, its terms, basis, authority, sphere and power. It sets forth the urgency of preaching a true gospel – the only one which fully meets the sinner's deepest need.
