Description

In this book on Romans, W. H. Nichols (1867- 1960) starts with an excellent summary of the main points of each of the letters written by the apostle Paul. He then summarizes the teaching of the book of Romans in a simple, clear, and concise manner. This is not a detailed exposition of each chapter, but a succinct overview. He divides the book into three sections: doctrinal, chapters 1 to 8, dispensational, chapters 9 -11, and practical, chapters 12 to 16.
