Description

Yes, marriage is indeed the second most important decision in life—right after the question of where we will spend eternity. Who should I marry? A big question. With big consequences. An irreversible one. One that you should ponder carefully. Marriage can reflect the relationship between Christ and the Church in a good way, or it can be “hell on earth”—either a joyous adventure with the Lord or a situation to be regretted, with no way out. This makes it even more important for every Christian to consider this question, relying upon the Lord for His guidance.

This book provides biblical guidelines for questions like: How can I find out God's will for my life? Has He already chosen a partner for me, or does He leave the choice to me? What criteria should I apply? What does it take to go a step further towards marriage? This decision is less knotty than we might think... God has something good in store for us.
