Description

Living by the Well are the notes of an address given by brother F. W. Grant in 1899. In this address, F. W. Grant encouraged the saints then in attendance and us today who read these notes, to make the study of the Word of God a priority in our lives. He laments the fact that back then, in the 19th century, people did not have time to study the Scriptures. He points out that the Scriptures are all about God's son and asks the pertinent question to his audience and to us today, "how much of Christ will you be content to do without?"
